THESDAY, JAN. 22, 1878.

Hesolution Passed by the Metho-dist Ministers of the City. We are indebted to the Rev. W. C. Snodgrass for the following copy of

Monday morning meeting of the Methodist ministers of the city. "Resolved, That in our judgment no notices should be given from the pulpit except those which pertain to our own legalimate church work."

We think that the press of the city ow the ministers who passed this resolution a complimentary acknowledgement. We do not wonder that the brethren of the pulpit have become weary and even dis-gusted at the multiplicity of the demands made upon them to advertise all sorts of sacred and secular shows, concerts, entertainments and performances by reading notices of them before service opens on each Sunday. They do right in referring all such notices to the cement columns of the daily press where they legitimately belong. If we remember right, Rev. Mr. Fisher, in his day here, put a stop to this advertising iness from his pulpit.

Shall We Hold a State Fair in West Virginia Next Fail? BROOKE COUNTY, January 16.

Editors Intalligencer.

Was there a State Board of Agriculture established in West Virginia? If so, who are its officers and what are they doing to make our State compare favorably with the adjoining States of Ohio and Pennsylvania? If we have no such a department would it be out of place for some suggestions to be made in regard to its organization. A Secretary should be appointed with a very small salary and a meeting called for the city of Wheeling, asking each Agricultural Society hiroughout the State to send a representative (providing there be not more than one such society in one county) for the purpose of electing therefrom a President and Vice President, with twelve directors, and to have control of the organization for one year, four of these to serve one no one control of the not to hold the Fair on any county's grounds unless the county organization will agree to alwance for premiums at least live hundred dollars, and have their grounds repaired and improved for the reception of the great State Fair. The tyelve Honorables constituting the Board should work free, as it is for the good of their own State. After the starting is complete there should be an annual meeting appointed for the special discussion of some of the most interesting subjects relating to agriculture. These suggestions are offered on the supposition that no such a Board exists in the State. May I have the pleasure of having your views on the point at your earliest convenience. Very Respectfully,

We deferred immediate reply to the

We deferred immediate reply to the above communication until we could confairs held on Wheeling Island. He has been kind enough to furnish us with his views at some length, and after reading them we herewith proceed to give our correspondent the benefit of them in a condensed form: Our friend does no m to enthuse very much over the idea of a State fair, although he does not pos itively discourage it. His experience however, in the old organizations ha taught him that there are many more drawbacks connected with such a movement than inexperienced persons are apt to take into their calculations. Notwithstanding, however, these drawbacks be inclines to the opinion that if a general co-operation, such an Mr. Gist suggests, could really be enlisted throughout the State, a creditable State fair might be held. The expense of such a movement, however, would be large—several thousands of dollars—and a great deal of money would be needed at the very outset as a sina qua non to success. The last few fairs held on the Island were mainly successful, so far as they could be considered even pecuniary successes, by reason of the horse racing feature connected with them. This feature, while distasteful to many persons, is after all with the state of the service of the content of the distasteful to many persons, is after all only one train per day each way over the the only one that can be relied on to fill the coffers of an agricultural society. At applicant for Superintendent of that part least so it has proved at nearly al late years.

The fashion of the country is now get ting to be to hold Agricultural and Mechanical Exhibitions in the prominent cities, as for instance at Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago and Pittsburgh, and these are to a considerable ex tent monopolizing public attention. True they are not stock fairs, to which fin horses, cattle and sheep are taken, but they are made very attractive to farmers owing to the extent of their general in-dustrial bearing on agriculture, in the way of improved implements and machinery. The railroads do all in their power to induce farmers to attend them y putting down fares very low, and thus affording them once a year a chance to visit the large cities at a very small ex pense. With these exhibitions a State fair in West Virginia would necessarily come in competition in the fall of the

Our friend is of the opinion that the most suitable place to hold the proposed fair would be on Wheeling Island, for the reason that the grounds are ample, and to some extent already prepared, but for the still stronger reason that the Island is the centre of a ten miles circumfer ence that embraces at least one hundred thousand people, and in the midst, as it were, of a rich, populous and productive country lying on both sides of the Ohio, in three States of the Union. The Ohio country tributary to Wheeling has always been a leading support to our fairs, and Pennsylvania has also been an important factor. To make 'a State fair a success here a great deal of interest would be enlisted, not only in this State, but also in the two States named, Merchants and manufecturers would need to be importuned to send their goods and wares for exhibition. All people having extra fine stock on their farms would have to see some gain in sending it to the fair before going to ex-

Editor Intelligence.
I noticed in your paper of a late date that our old "mutual friend," the venerable Eligah Day Eaq., had recently been with rheymatism. Editors Intelligences.

I noticed in your paper of a late date that our old "mutual friend," the venerable Eligah Day Esq., had recently been on a visit to friends in Waynsburg Green county, Pa., and that he traveled from Washington to Waynsburg on the narrow gauge railroad recently opened for travel. I was much surprised to learn that he was four hours making the trip. I presume, however, that the road is in an unfinished condition, and unsafe for making quick time. I fully concur with you in your views in regard to narrow gauge railroads. They are destined to become important feeders to the great through lines of the country, as well as chanels of communication between local towns and villeges, affording facilities for trade and travel, and shipment of the productions of the neighborhoods through which they may pass, and which resolution passed yesterday at the usual of the productions of the neighborhoods through which they may pass, and which heretofore have been entirely cut off a portion of the year by almost impassible roads. Narrow gauge railroads can be constructed so much cheaper, that prudent capitalists will adopt them between all local points.

nolds received so much beneat from the waters, and suffered so much in coming here by the old stage route from Little Rock, that he determined to make a more comfortable way for patients to reach the Hot Springs. Accordingly, he procured a charter and contracted at once for the construction of the narrow gauge railroad at a cost of about $12,000 to $14,000 per mile. It is probably one of the most complete narrow gauge railroads in the country, both in construction and equipment. The grade is fine, and with but few sharp curves. It carried over 10,000 through passengers last year, about 4,000 bales of cotton, and 400 tons of other freight. The passenger trains between Malvern and Hot Springs usually make the run in one hour. A number of distinguished railroad men were here on a visit from the North a few days since. I was invited by Mr. Conger, the agent, to accompany them on their return as far as Malvern. We made the run in forty-five minutes. The Hot Springs narrow gauge railroad at Malvern, forty-five miles southwast of Little Rock and follows up the Valley Springs harrow gauge tambeat acts of the Malvern, forty-five miles southwest of Malvern, forty-five miles southwest of Little Rock, and follows up the Vailey of the Ouachita (pronounced Wauhataw) in nearly a western direction twenty-five miles to Hot Springs. The country through which the road runs is quite poor-every little improved—almost an unbroken forest the entire distance—consequently has but little local or neighborhood trade or travel. If the country between Malvern and Hot Springs was as good as that between Washington and Wayneaburg, or between Washington and Wayneaburg, or between Washington and productive—the Hot Springs railroad (would probably pay better dividends than any road in the country, as it is not an expensive road to keep in repair. an expensive road to keep in repair.

The Progress of the Ancient Ror-ongh-she aspires to be Called "Big Washington" in the Near Future. Washington, PA, Jan. 19.

Elitors intelligencer:

If the population of this borough increases as much in the next few years as it has in the last three or four, and all the railroads are built which are now being agitated we will not much longer merit the title of "Little" Washington. The narrow gauge fever is raging all over the county, and there is a prospect of the two branches of the Castle Shannon in the east and of the Bethany in the west being pushed forward to an early construction. Just now our citizens are earnestly discussing "the water supply." As the water in very many wells has become impure it is proposed to furnish clean, fresh water from Harding's coal shaft. The matter is being agitated in the Reporter and it is likely that a private company will take

I did not see your note relative to the report of Lydia Pettit burning her little grandchild until a few days since. It is correct, and it has been confirmed by the wife of the physician who was called on to render treatment to the little sufferer. The citizens and all in the vicinity are filled with indignation over it. I do not reside in the village but about a mile out. I understand from the same source as the above thatsteps have been taken to bring her to justice. She seems very inbring her to justice. She seems very in different and says she was not augry at al different and says she was not angry at all when she committed the act. No one seeing her would believe she could be guilty of such an atrocity. She possesses a very attractive countenance, and is connected with the first families of the town. I prefer that my name should not be published, but I think the perpetrator of such an act ought to be made known. If you still doubt the authenticity of this I can give you name. you still doubt the authenticity of this I can give you names of many persons for reference. I will just give one now, viz: Dr. J. K. Thomas, of Mt. Pleasant. I need not give more now, thinking this one sufficient. M.

Our readers will recollect that we declined to publish the first report sent to us about this matter, but it comes to us now in such a shape as to leave little or no room to doubt its correctness. It seems almost incredible that a respectable woman could do such a deed, but, as we all know, instances of, the kind have occurred, and we can therefore only join with our correspondent in hoping that the perpretrator will be brought to justice and thus made an example to deter others from the commission of such deeds pense in that direction. Therefore, as we have said, a large fund must be provided or guaranteed in advance. Can this be done? This is the important question. It is one that can only be answered by a number of prominent farmers, manufacturers, merchants and business men, coming together at an early day from different parts of the State for consultation.
